

CITY TICKET LITTLE CHOICE

MANY CANDIDATES NOT OPPOSED — BOTH PARTIES HAVE BLANKS—LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN.

What the voters of Ypsilanti will vote for at the election next Monday, April 3:

"Shall the new charter be adopted?"

"Shall the city of Ypsilanti bond itself for $10,000?"

"Shall the city of Ypsilanti pay a portion of the cost of curbing and gutter improvements not exceeding 50 per cent of the cost thereof?"

There will be two tickets in the field, Republican and Democrat. Emory R. Beal is the Republican choice for mayor and has the field to himself, as the Democrats made no nomination for this office.

Martin B. Stadtmiller, Democratic choice for justice of the peace, will also make the race alone for this office.

In the first ward Lewis T. Smith, Democrat, will make the race alone. Austin H. Crane is the nominee on the Republican ticket.

In the second ward only one Democratic name appears on the Democratic ballot. Will C. Horner is the aldermanic candidate on the Republican ticket. Austin H. Crane for constable.

In the third ward, for alderman, John Ableson, Republican, and Alma Blount, Democrat, will contest for this office. Austin H. Crane for constable.

In the fourth ward Harry C. Currier, Republican, will run against Charles F. Beck, Democrat. For constable in this ward Byron J. Fosdick will run against Ernest Maddux, Democrat, present incumbent of this office.

In the fifth ward Matthew Max, Democratic alderman, is unopposed by the Republicans. For constable it will be a choice between Byron J. Fosdick and Ernest Maddux.

George M. Gandy is the Republican candidate in the first district for supervisor, unopposed by the Democrats. In the second district George A. Cook is the nominee on the Republican ticket for supervisor, also unopposed.

The only contest between the Democrats and Republicans is in the third and fourth wards for the office of alderman and constable.

Not much interest is being shown in political circles and chances are good for a small vote being polled.

RESTAURANT CLOSED—AGAIN OPEN.

The Ypsilanti Restaurant company was closed up Saturday by a suit in replevin, begun by Peter Pappas, who claimed that default had been made in the payment of certain notes he held. The Swisher-Grocer company of Ann Arbor also began a suit in justice court against the restaurant company. The equipment to the amount of $5,000 was removed and stored on East Cross street. The restaurant company gave a bond Tuesday and are again doing business.

SAXON COMPANY NOW REALITY

FINAL PAPERS SIGNED WEDNESDAY—PREPARATIONS FOR MOVING ARE NOW UNDER WAY

It is now an assured fact that the Saxon Motor company will move its factory to Ypsilanti. Wednesday morning representatives of this company met at the Board of Commerce and the papers were signed for a lease of the new Apex Motor company's factory for a period of three years, with an option of purchase.

At the present time this company is building three cars a day. It is their plan to increase this production to 15 cars a day, and they will employ around 200 workmen, and will, as far as possible, hire the city's local people, bringing with them only their department heads. The work of moving to Ypsilanti has already begun and they will take over the building April 1 and production will start as soon as machinery can be set and got into operation.

With the coming of this new factory, the building of the new $200,000 hotel and the large apartment building on Upper Ellis and several dwelling houses that are to be erected the coming summer will make business good for Ypsilanti.

YPSILANTI TEACHERS -ATTENDING MEETING-

This week, vacation time for the Normal and city schools, several of the educators of this city are in Ann Arbor in attendance at the 57th Michigan Schoolmasters' club, the State Federation of Teachers' clubs, the Agricultural Teachers' association, and the Michigan Academy of Science, which meet in that city Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

MAN WANTED LOCATED IN CINCINNATI

Chief of Police Connors on Tuesday received a letter from the chief of police at Cincinnati stating that Ira Burton, the colored man the police have been looking for here on the Horn store robbery, was locked up there and positively identified from a picture that Chief Connors had sent to the Cincinnati police. Chief Connors also sent a piece of cloth taken from Sima's store and it corresponded to a suit that was on Burton when he was arrested. He is being held there for a $50,000 jewelry robbery.

Chief of Police Connors will go to Cincinnati the latter part of this week with a warrant for Burton, charging him with breaking and entering.

TO BUILD FOR ARMY.

Erection of a modern three-story brick building to house the Salvation Army of Ann Arbor, at a cost of $25,000, is the goal set by the army of that city. A campaign for funds will be held April 17 to 25. The Salvation Army already owns its lot at the corner of Fifth avenue and Washington. The county outside of Ann Arbor will be solicited, as the building is to serve not only the needs of Ann Arbor but the county as well.

ROBERT GARDNER PLEADS GUILTY TO CHARGE.

Robert Gardner, accused of contributing to the delinquency of Thelma Hancock, aged 15 years, pleaded guilty Tuesday afternoon before Justice Stadtmiller and paid costs of $25 and was put on probation for a year.

Assistant Prosecutor Laird made this recommendation. He had investigated and discovered that about all Gardner did was to give the girl money with which to run away. Gardner had already spent 10 days in the county jail awaiting trial.

RARE GLADIOLI BULBS.

Curtiss announces a sale of gladioli bulbs at the store of Martin Dawson company Friday and Saturday, April 7 and 8, at which will be offered not only the ordinary commercial bulbs but many of the imported and original hybridizations of leading growers of America. MASS MEETING FRIDAY NIGHT

PURPOSE TO EXPLAIN NEW CHARTER TO BE VOTED ON NEXT MONDAY.

Friday evening at the Masonic temple a mass meeting of the voters of Ypsilanti will be held and Webster Pearce, of Mt. Pleasant, will be present and talk to the people of this city on their proposed new city charter to be voted on next Monday.

Mr. Pearce is in a position to know the commission-managerial form of government and how it will work out in cities the size of Ypsilanti. He has been a member of the old mayor and council rule of Mt. Pleasant and is now one of the commissioners under the commission form of government that Mt. Pleasant is now working under.

It is no more than fair, no matter what your convictions may be, that you turn out to this meeting and hear this phase of city government discussed. It is a matter that should be of vital interest to you, as the first step has been taken in Ypsilanti to change from the old to the more up-to-date city government, and you have the new charter before you. Monday you are going to either vote for it or against it, and by that vote you are going to decide the future government of this city. It is up to you as an intelligent voter to know how the commission-managerial form of government works in other cities. If it is good Ypsilanti wants it; if it is bad Ypsilanti don't want it. It is for you to decide. The committee who has had the framing of the new charter in hand is now ready for you to pass judgment on their work. The only fair way to do so is to learn of its workings where it has been in force. So again we urge you to turn out to this meeting next Friday night.

ELECT OFFICERS FOR CATHOLIC COUNCIL

Officers were elected Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Men's Catholic Welfare council as follows: President, Lewis Burke; vice-president, Arthur Corbitt; secretary, Donald Cole; treasurer, Frank Blaha.

Alex. J. Nulan explained the new city charter and C. P. Steimle advocated the need of a new contagious hospital.

Rev. Fr. Needham was present and gave a talk assuring the men he was always at their service in anything he could do for them.

Just as the meeting was about to adjourn Rev. Fr. Dunnigan, of Flint, and Wm. E. Holler, secretary of the Flint Board of Commerce, came unexpectedly into the meeting and both gave splendid talks. Fr. Dunnigan, who is well known in military circles, appealed to the men to be broad and liberal in their views and to accord every man the right to worship God as he sees fit. In America, he said, we must take the best from every denomination and weave it into a citizenship that will stand for the right of every man to raise his family without any interference from the outside. When armistice was signed in 1919 we thought that we had gotten rid of autocracy, but there are still those who want to see the state supervise everything a man does.

Mr. Holler, who stated that he was a Protestant, stated it was a pleasure to know and travel with a man like Fr. Dunnigan, whom he characterized as a man's man. He denounced paid religious agitators and said they should be suppressed. They are destructionists of the worst type, he stated.

Local speakers will be present and open discussion will be had.

MOTHERS' DAY AT WOODRUFF SCHOOL

Thursday of last week occurred the annual Mothers' day at the Woodruff school. About 30 mothers were entertained by the children of this school in a Marionette party, to which they had been invited by notes written to them by the children.

The forepart of the afternoon was spent in demonstrating the regular work. Following this a program of songs, folk dances, games and the original production of the "Marionettes."

FRANCHISE PRODUCED GAVE TOWNSHIP LITTLE

The township board of Ypsilanti township met Saturday at the Savings bank with Thomas Beath, who represented the Detroit, Jackson and Chicago Railway company. The meeting was called for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the street railway company had a franchise under which they were legally operating. Mr. Beath produced a franchise, dated July, 1898, which seemed to satisfy the board.

The franchise gave the township very little right, and about the only thing it conceded to was the right to say what the fare could be, except it should not be less than 10 cents through the township. The board contended that meant all the township, while Mr. Beath pointed out there was a franchise for both sections of the township east and west of the city, and that it only meant 10 cents for each part of the township.

Justice Curtiss stated Mr. Beath agreed to send copies of the franchise to the board and that they intended to study it over and see what rights the company had and what rights the township has. The township board desires to have the company move out of the highway onto their own right of way purchased.

ROTARIANS ENTERTAIN GOVERNOR GROESBECK

The Rotary club was honored at their Monday luncheon by having Governor Groesbeck as a guest. The talk given by the governor was one of the most interesting ever heard by the Rotary club. It had to do with state affairs and problems confronting the administration in its clean-up campaign.

He spoke of the several state institutions and the deplorable conditions he found and what they were doing for the betterment of these institutions. Probably he gave a better insight into the state affairs in the short time he talked than has been the privilege of his hearers to learn in previous years. He is an earnest talker and is apparently giving his best to the state of Michigan in building up a system that will be adequate in running state affairs.

KIWANIS HEAR GOV. GEN. FRANK JENSEN

Governor General Frank Jensen of Benton Harbor was the principal speaker at the Kiwanis club meeting Wednesday noon. He told of the aims and objects of the club and stated that the club had more than 70,000 members in the United States and Canada.

George Millage spoke on the proposed new city charter to be voted upon at the coming election next Monday.

Dr. Charles Pillsbury, Dr. H. B. Britton and Dr. Floyd E. Westfall all advocated the need of a new contagious hospital.

Tickets were sold for the dinner given next Tuesday evening at the Country club to 140 officers and teachers of the rural schools.

HOLD THIMBLE PARTY.

Thursday (today) the March social day for the Ypsilanti Women's club was held at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Otis Stevens, 312 Michigan avenue. The afternoon activities were in the nature of a thimble party. In the evening the ladies entertained their husbands at a light luncheon. The committee in charge of the meeting was composed of Mrs. J. W. Stevens, Mrs. W. A. Van Wagon, Mrs. Charles Harris, Mrs. E. E. Coombs and Mrs. Dwight Hand.

COOK LOOKS GOOD FOR JOB

HAS SECOND HIGHEST STANDARD AND WILL BE THE PROBABLE CHOICE.

The long silence on the appointment of Ypsilanti's postmaster has at last been broken and from Washington comes the announcement that out of seven aspirants to this job only three were eligible. They are the present incumbent, John E. McCann, whose standing was 89.80; George A. Cook, 80.40, and Fred A. Cain, 78.60. Mr. Cain is the present assistant postmaster. The other candidates are W. N. Lister, Richard J. Owen, both of whom are holding this position; Edwin A. Hirt and R. J. Bird, present member of the board of county road commissioners.

As it is not customary for a Republican administration to appoint a Democrat to this position, Mr. McCann would be eliminated. This will leave it up to the next highest, which undoubtedly means George A. Cook stands a very good chance in being Ypsilanti's next postmaster. Mr. Cook is the senior member of the firm of Sullivan & Cook and his appointment will be a source of gratification to his host of friends. He has always been prominent in the affairs of his city and county. For a period of five years he served the city as clerk and was register of deeds for the county for four years. He is a Republican and is at present the supervisor from the second ward.

While all of the candidates are prominent in this community and all have their friends, the appointment of George Cook will please the people of this city, for Ypsilanti has no more loyal citizen or one with more friends.

MAN RECEIVES MONEY ON AN OLD JUDGMENT

Away back in 1913 L. A. Phelps, a grocer of this city, sued a man before Justice Stadtmiller and obtained a judgment for $19.15. At that time $3.50 was collected on the judgment by garnishment and the balance, $15.65, the defendant, an honest man, agreed to pay in installments of 50 cents a week.

The judgment was all paid up by 1919, but in the meantime Phelps had gone out of business and had left the city. Last Friday Judge Stadtmiller happened to see him at the hotel meeting at the Masonic temple when the workers were gathered to receive the final report. He went over to Phelps' table, where he was a guest of a worker, and asked him if he recalled the case. He did. Phelps was asked to call for the money and he came in last Saturday. By a strange coincidence it so happened that the defendant was in the office when Phelps came in after the money. They shook hands, and Phelps' smile was just $15.65 broader as he left the justice's office.

KIWANIS CLUB TO ENTERTAIN OFFICERS

On April 4 the Kiwanis club will be host to the officers and teachers of the country schools adjacent to Ypsilanti. The Country club will be the scene of this gathering. At this meeting a program for rural educational activities for 1922-23 will be discussed.

A number of novel features in the way of entertainment is promised, one of which will be motion pictures made of the event. The Kiwanians will not only act as host to the visitors but will also act as waiters, a sure guarantee that every plate will be well filled.

Those who have the program in charge are anxious that to acceptance of invitations will be in not later than this week, so that final arrangements can all be made.

COPS ANOTHER MILESTONE.

Tuesday evening several of Walter Joslyn's friends helped him to celebrate his — Well, anyhow, it was a birthday party. We were not particularly interested in his age; but the thing that impressed us most was the beautiful setting of the dining table and what was on it. Oh, boy, it was some feed, and the ladies surely have our thanks. It wouldn't do for Walt to have too many birthdays in one year. So many good things to eat at one time would surely fust a feller up some. When one lives on whole wheat bread and bran he is in no shape to do justice to a real high-toned affair. How about it, Bert? Walt received some very nice birthday presents from the bunch just to help him remember that his next birthday will come on March 28, 1923. Say, Walt, how old are you anyhow? "One who won."

MADE MEMBER PHI LAMBDA UPSILON.

VOTE TO BOND FOR $10,000

GIVE TO THE CITY A CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL THAT WILL SERVE ITS NEEDS.

Monday at their meeting the Rotary club unanimously voted to give their support to the bond issue for the new contagious hospital to be voted on at next Monday's election. It would hardly seem that no fair thinking citizen could find argument against this great need of Ypsilanti. The old contagious hospital is a disgrace, not only small but ill-fitted for the use it is intended.

President McKenny told of one time last year when 23 cases of smallpox were confined at Health cottage for lack of room and facilities for handling these cases at the city contagious hospital. Incidents were also cited where it was difficult for physicians to get nurses to serve in the present contagious ward and the fact that only one kind of disease can be cared for at a time.

City Health Officer Dr. Charles Pillsbury has this to say:

"With several cases of smallpox reported in Ann Arbor during the past week Ypsilanti may well take warning of what a similar epidemic would mean here. With only the old contagious hospital, without provisions for segregation, available for caring for the cases, just a few cases would loom as a menace to the entire community. I don't believe anything could better emphasize the need of a new contagious hospital building, an appropriation for which is to be voted on at next Monday's election."

Although there is no reason to be alarmed over the possibility of a smallpox epidemic here at this time, Dr. Pillsbury this morning urged that every person who had not been successfully vaccinated within four years be vaccinated at once. He urged this action as a precautionary measure, and does not mean to alarm the populace over the possibility of a spread of the disease in this section of the county.

"With a number of cases of smallpox as near Ypsilanti as Ann Arbor I believe it wise for everyone who has not been vaccinated within four years to be vaccinated at once."

According to Dr. Pillsbury there is just one case of contagion in Ypsilanti at the present time, and this is in a private home where the entire family is in quarantine.

"I have tried both the Detroit and Ann Arbor nurses' registry," Dr. Pillsbury said today, "but could not find one nurse who would care for the case in our present contagious hospital. I believe that if everyone could realize what such a condition would mean should such a case of quarantine be in their family, that everyone would go to the polls next Monday with the determination to vote for a $10,000 appropriation for a new contagious hospital."

We believe it is the duty of every voter to vote for this bond issue and place Ypsilanti in a position able to take care in a proper way of contagious diseases liable to spring up at any time. Would you want any member of your family or your friends taken to the present contagious hospital? We rather think not. Don't be influenced by tax calamity howlers, but vote to see that your city and her citizens are taken care of in a decent, sanitary way, not forced to go to a place that's not fit.

AMERICAN LEGION TO HOLD REGULAR MEETING

The regular meeting of the American Legion will be held this evening (Thursday) at the G. A. R. hall at 7:30. All service men have been asked to bring their discharge papers.

A detail of men from Ft. Wayne will be here in the afternoon at the legion headquarters and in the evening at the G. A. R. hall to issue victory medals. Questionnaires are to be filled out and the legion charter is to be signed at this meeting.

The legion survey will be organized to consist of a house to house canvass for all service men as per order from national headquarters. The survey is national in scope and is designated, first, to seek out and list every American veteran of the World war and determine his needs and the privileges of which he has not availed himself, despite his right to them as a veteran; second, to gather evidence that will indicate to congress and the country what options veterans will choose under the legion five-fold adjustment compensation bill; to make claim to all citizens, including veterans, that the legion means service; to explain to the veterans what the legion is trying to do for them, and to show them the advantage of membership in the legion for themselves and in the auxiliary for their mothers, wives, sisters and daughters.

CLEANLINESS IN OLD RUSSIA

Passage in Novel Would Lead One to Infer It Was Not Considered Important.

The quotation in the Companion from a publication of 1640 urging that "every day one should take pains to wash one's hands, and one should also wash one's face almost as often," reminds a contributor of a passage in Tolstoy's "War and Peace." The story, which follows the fortunes of Count Rostov, pictures the way in which the "ball given by a grandee of Catherine's time."

"It was," writes Tolstoy, "the first great ball that Natasha had ever attended. She had got up at eight o'clock that morning and had been all long in a state of the wildest excitement and bustle. All her energies earliest morning had been expended in the effort to have herself, Sonya and her mamma dressed to perfection. Sonya and the countess trusted themselves entirely to her hands. The countess was to wear a dark red velvet gown; the two girls white crepe gowns with pink silk overskirts and roses in their corsages; their hair was to be arranged a la grecque.

"The most important part had already been done; their feet, their hands, their arms, their necks and their ears had been washed, perfumed and powdered with extraordinary care. On their feet they wore openwork silk stockings and white slippers with bows. Their toilets were almost finished. Sonya was already dressed and so was the countess."

The reader infers that their feet were included in the comprehensive washing only on account of the openwork stockings. And he is inclined to ask, if the tremendous preparation for such a ball caused only that much washing, how much did they wash day by day?—Youth's Companion.

"FREAK" EDITIONS OF BIBLE

On Account of Their Peculiar Errors Some of Them Are Worth Considerable Money.

Several examples of "freak" editions of the Bible recently came under the auctioneer's hammer in London.

"One of the most remarkable is known as the 'Big Bible.' In this, the context of the Ninety-first Psalm runs: 'Thou shalt not be afraid for any buggies by night'—'bugges,' in medieval times, meaning nightmares and other terrors.

Another curious example in the collection is the 'Treacle Bible,' in which the passage, Jeremiah 8:22, reads: 'There is no more treacle at Gylend.' The 'Murderers' Bible' takes its title from an error in the translation of Jude, verse 8, which in the Authorized Version runs: 'These are murmurers, complainers;' while a curious misprint in the Beattitudes: 'Blessed are the place-makers,' gave rise to one set of Bibles being known as the 'Place-makers' edition.

Altogether there are no fewer than ten 'freak' editions of the great book, some of them of considerable value.

Sit down in a chair and fix your attention on some object on the other side of the room. Quickly hold your finger up right in front of the object, and instantly shut your eyes. Then, without moving your head or your finger, open your eyes one at a time. If when you open your right eye you find your finger directly in front of the object, you are right-eyed. In that case, you will find your finger very much to the right of the object when you open your left eye.

If you are right-handed, you will almost probably find that you are right-eyed.

This is due to the fact that of the two halves of your brain one is slightly more developed than the other. And the organs and limbs on that side of your body which is controlled by the more developed half are able to carry out your wishes more easily and quickly than those of the other side.

This Life, and Beyond.

For what is life that we should make such ado about it, and hug it so closely and look to it to fill our hearts? What is all earthly life, with all its bad and good luck, its riches and its poverty, but a vapor that passes away—noise and smoke overclouding the enduring light of heaven? A man may be very happy and blest in this life, yet he may feel that, however pleasant it is, at root it is no reality, but only a shadow of realities which are eternal and infinite in the bosom of God—a piecemeal pattern of the light kingdom, the city not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.—Charles Kingsley.

No "If" About Dying;

A wealthy man, in getting his "house in order," was heard to remark: "Now, I've arranged all my papers for my family, so that if I die—"

"If you die," interrupted his lawyer; "say when you die; there is no 'if' about dying."

There is food for thought in this incident. We are all prone to look at the matter as did this wealthy man. We think of the future with the conditional stipulation—"if I die," and frame everything around that "if." As a matter of fact, there is nothing more certain than death. It is when and not if.

YPSILANTI'S NEW HOTEL GOES OVER BIG.

The drive for Ypsilanti's new hotel was completed Saturday evening with the grand total of $202,900 in stock sold. This assures Ypsilanti of a modern, up-to-date hotel.

The campaign was put over in a little over a week, which goes to show that Ypsilanti is alive and wide awake to its needs and has a bunch of loyal citizens who go out after things and get what they go after. The plans of the new hotel call for 60 rooms, with modern equipment, to cost $200,00, and when completed will be one of the finest in the state in cities the size of Ypsilanti.

Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Camp, of Ann Arbor, spent Sunday at the George Whitmire home.

Here we introduce the contagious convalescent patient. Think it over and then vote yes for a new contagious hospital April 3. To provide a proper place for contagious cases it will cost approximately $1 per $1,000 property valuation, and this small amount spread over a period of 10 years. There will be no operating expense to the city, the county taking care of all indigent cases.

TWO MEN BOUND OVER TO MAY TERM

Ben Harris, aged 75 years, was arraigned Thursday morning before Justice Stadtmiller on a charge of selling and keeping for sale moonshine whisky. This place has been suspected for several weeks by the police and Chief of Police Connors called in Officers Karkeet and Mitchell, who secured a truck and Wednesday evening stopped before Harris' place and made a buy of one quart of moonshine, for which they paid $3. Chief of Police Connors then had Justice Stadtmiller come over to the office and issue a search warrant Wednesday night and early Thursday morning Harris' place was searched and a half gallon of the contraband was found.

Harris waived examination Thursday before Justice Stadtmiller and was bound over to the May term of court. His bail was fixed at $2,000. The same officers went to the place of Robert Ellis, at 132 Stewart street, where they made a buy of one quart, paying $2.75. Chief Connors and some of his men searched Ellis' place Wednesday night and found a gallon of the moonshine. Ellis waived an examination before Justice Stadtmiller and was bound over to the May term of circuit court.

PLEADS GUILTY ON DRUNK CHARGE.

Martin Wilson pleaded guilty Thursday before Justice Stadtmiller to being drunk. He made an affidavit where he secured the liquor and sentence was suspended under the law. Members of the state police took the name and address of the party and stated they would investigate.

INGRAM RIVALS "THE FOUR HORSEMEN."

Rex Ingram, through his masterful production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," established himself supreme among directors. A tremendous spectacle, envisaging the war as reflected through two continents, it overwhelmed with a superb sense of power.

In "The Conquering Power," his newest production, to be shown Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, at the Martha Washington theatre he works in an entirely different genre. Here we have an intensely intimate study of family life, a universal story of love and greed against the background of a French provincial town. The story has been adapted by June Mathias from Balzac's novel, "Eugenie Grandet," with swift moving, masterful continuity. Mr. Ingram has illustrated it with pictures that have the tonal quality of great works of art; the soft lighting of the photographs and the perfectly composed groupings give an exquisite sense of reality. It is a long stride from "The Four Horsemen," but, as an artistic achievement, no less noteworthy.

Although there are no official stars, three of the actors stand out with a stellar glow. Alice Terry, delicately beautiful and charming, gives a deeply moving performance as Eugenie; Rudolph Valentino, handsome and debonair, plays the lover, Charles, with a wealth of warm Latin temperament and magnetism; and Ralph Lewis, remembered as the Stoneman of "The Birth of a Nation," is thrillingly convincing as Eugenie's miserly father. Others in the distinguished cast are Edward Connelly, Edna Dumary, George Atkinson, Willard Lee Hall, Mary Hearn, Bridgetta Clark, Mark Fenton, Eugene Pouyel and Ward Wing. The photography is by John F. Seitz and the art interiors by Ralph Barton and Amos Myers.

WILL LEAVE CITY.

Wm. Johnston was arrested Wednesday night by Chief of Police Connors on complaint of the former wife of Johnston, who says Johnston was threatening her. Chief Connors released Johnston Thursday when he promised to leave the city.

Miss Mary Tatum is confined to her home with a severe cold.

Frederick Weinmann left Monday for St. Clair, Mich., where he will spend his vacation with his cousin, stellar glow. Alice Terry, delicately

Easter Apparel Is Most Entrancing

Perhaps most popular of all this year is the Tailleur. It's come back and judging from the amount of style, of smartness, of novelty it flaunts, it's here to stay awhile. Some would say that suits have been out of service for several seasons; rather have they been scouting the whole world for new inspirations. From weavers everywhere they've gleaned the richest secrets and now reveal them to the world of Fashion in tweeds, trelaines, and twill cords. Then to wear with the new suits are the lovely Spring blouses. It's the blouse that shows the difference between the everyday skirt-and-waist and the new suit after the suit jacket has been put aside. Many different shades either in striking contrast or harmoniously toned to the color of the suit are found in the over-blouses. You can find exactly what you need to complete your Easter attire at

THE GIRL, A HORSE AND A DOG.

Daddy Hiram met us at the door of his newly repaired cabin across the dump head and insisted upon taking care of the horses. Beasley and I washed up at the outdoor, bench-and-basin lavatory; and when we went in, Jeanie had supper ready for us.

She didn't sit at table with us—from which I argued that she and her father had already eaten—and I thought she purposely avoided me; avoided meeting my eye, at least. I didn't wonder at it. Her position, as I had it figured out, was rather awkwardly anomalous. By this time, I had fully convinced myself that she was in love with Bullerton, and was probably engaged to be married to him; and that it was only her native honesty that had driven her to take sides against him in the struggle for the Cinnabar, prompting her to do the one thing which had knocked his nefarious scheme on the head—namely, the recording of my deed.

Knowing nothing but hard work, Daddy Hiram was running the deep-well pumps himself, or rather, taking the night shift on them; and about ten o'clock, just as I had made up my mind to go to bed and let the repairing activities take care of themselves, I saw Jeanie going over to the boiler shed with a pot of freshly made coffee for her father. Here was my chance, I

"Let's Have It Out, Jeanie," I said. thought; so I waited and cornered her as she came back.

"Let's have it out, Jeanie," I said; which, I confess, was a sort of brutal way to begin on the woman I loved, and yet the only way if I was to go on remembering that she belonged to another man. "We can at least be good friends, can't we?"

"No," she returned, with a queer little twist of her pretty lips and a flash of the blue eyes, "I'm afraid we can't even be that—or those—any more, Mr. Bullerton."

It was awkward for both of us, standing there before the open cabin door, and I pointed to the bench where Daddy Hiram was wont to smoke his evening pipe in good weather.

"Won't you sit down until we can sort of flail it out?" I begged.

"It's no use, whatever," she objected; nevertheless, she did sit down and let me sit beside her.

"I know just how distressed you must be," I began, "and perhaps I can lift a bit of the load from your shoulders. There will be no legal steps taken against you—against Charles Bullerton."

"Thank you," she said; just as short as that.

"And that isn't all," I went on. "After we get into the ore and have some real money to show for it, I'm going to make over a share in the Cinnabar to your father and put him in a position to do the right thing by you when you marry. And he'll do it; you know he'll do it."

"How kind!" she murmured, looking straight out in front of her.

"It isn't kindness; it's bare justice. Between you, you two have saved my legacy for me."

"I wish, now, it hadn't been saved!" she exclaimed, as vindictively as you please.

Truly, I thought the ways of women are past finding out; or at least the way of a maid with a man is.

"Can't I say anything at all without putting my foot into it?" I asked in despair. "You break a man's back with a load of obligation one day, and toss him lightly out of your young life the next! I haven't done anything to earn your—to earn the back of your hand, Jeanie; or if I have, I don't know what it is."

"You have committed the unpardonable sin," she accused coolly. "I don't wonder that Miss Randle took your ring off."

I wasn't going to let the talk shift to Lisette; not if I knew it, and could help it.

"What is the unpardonable sin?" I asked.

"To misunderstand: to think a person capable of a thing when a person is not; to—just take it for granted that a person is guilty—oh—with a little stamp of her foot—"I can't bear to talk about it!"

I guess it's a part of a man's equipment to be dense and sort of stupid—in his dealings with women, I mean. Slowly, so slowly that I thought the candle would never snap and hold, my foot mind crept back along the line, searching blindly for the point at which all this fiery indignation toward me had begun; back and still back to that moment of our deliverance—Daddy's and mine—at the shaft-house door, with this dear girl untwisting her arms from her father's neck, and with me saying, "I'm not hurt, either. Welcome home, Miss Twombly—or should I say, Mrs. Bullerton?"

"Jeanie!" I gasped; "do you mean that you're not going to marry Charles Bullerton—that you never meant to?"

"Of course, I'm not!" she retorted, with a savage little out-thrust of the adorable chin. "But you thought so small of me that you simply took it for granted!"

I wagged my head in deepest humility.

"I'm as the dust under your pretty feet, Jeanie; please don't trample me too hard, Bullerton—that is—er—we had a scrap the next morning after you went away, you know, and I—well, he rather got the worst of it. And when I had him down and was trying to make him tell us where you were—even your father thought you'd gone off with him—he said you'd planned to go with him to get married, but that you had failed to show up at Atropia in time for the train."

"He told a lie, because that is the way he is made and he couldn't help it," she said simply, still as cool as a cucumber. "He said we were going to Angels to get married, and I—I didn't say we weren't; I just let him talk and didn't say anything at all."

"Won't you tell me a bit more?" I begged.

"You don't deserve it the least little bit, but I will. It began with the deed; your deed to the mine. One day, when you were over at the shaft-house, and had left your coat here in the cabin, I saw him take the deed from your pocket when he didn't know I was looking. He read it and put it back quickly when he heard me stirring in the other room. I knew it hadn't been recorded; you and Daddy had both spoken of that. I felt sure he'd take it again, and perhaps destroy it. At first, I thought I'd tell you or Daddy, or both of you. But I knew that would mean trouble."

"We were never very far from the fighting edge in those days," I admitted. "Bullerton had shown me the gun he always carried under his arm, and had told me what to expect in case I were foolish enough to lose my temper."

"I know," she nodded. "He killed a man once; it was when I was a little girl and we were living in Cripple Creek. He was acquitted on the plea of self-defense. So I didn't dare say anything to you or to Daddy. What I did was to steal your deed myself, when I had a chance. Daddy has some blank forms just like it, and I sat up one night in my room and made a copy. It wasn't a very good copy—your grandfather's handwriting was awfully hard to imitate. Besides, I didn't have any notarial seal. But I thought it might do for—for something to be stolen. Then I hid the real deed and put the copy back in the envelope in your pocket."

"And Bullerton finally stole it, just as you thought he would," I put in.

"He did. You are dreadfully careless with your things; you are always leaving your coat around just where you happen to take it off. I knew then that the next thing to be done was to get your deed recorded quickly. He—he was urging me every day to run away with him, and I was afraid to tell him how much I despised him; afraid he'd take it out on you and Daddy. So I just let him go on and talk and believe what he pleased. Of course, he wanted to ride with me the morning we went away, but after we got down the road a piece, I made an excuse to go on ahead by another trail."

"That much of what he told your father and me—when we were having the scrap—was true. He said you went on ahead."

"I didn't go to Atropia, as he expected me to," she continued calmly. "I took the old Haversack trail across the mountain to Greaser siding. I knew that the Copah train would stop there on the slide-track. When I got as far as the Haversack I thought I heard somebody following me. I was scared and didn't know what to do. I was afraid my copying of the deed had been discovered and that the original would be taken away from me, so I hurried to hide the real deed. The old Haversack tunnel seemed to be a good place, but while I was in there Barney began to bark, and I looked out and saw that the noise I had heard had been made by a stray cow from one of the foothill ranches. So I remounted and rode on to catch the train to Conah. At Greaser siding I tried to make Barney lead the pony home, and Barney tried his best to do it. But Winkle wanted to graze, and I had to go off and leave them when the train came. That's all, I think."

"But what about me? Are you going to send me to a worse place than any jail?—for that is what the whole wide world is going to be to me without you, Jeanie, dear."

Her answer was just like her: She turned and put up her face to me and said, "Kiss me again, Stannie." And though all the carpenters on the job were looking on, as I suppose they were, by this time, I took her in my arms.

It was a short spasm; it sort of had to be in the public circumstances. When it was over, I folded Percy's telegram, took out my pencil, and with the dear girl looking on, printed my reply on what was left of the message blank. This is what I said:

"The same to you. Have found the G. and the D., and Miss Jeanie Twombly and I are to be married as soon as we can find a minister. Incidentally, I have learned how to work. Hope it will be a comfort to you, to Grandfather Jasper—if he is where he can hear of it—and to all concerned."

"STANNIE."

[THE END.]

There was silence for a little time; such silence as the clattering and hammering of the carpenters and steam-fitters permitted. Then I said:

"And when you got here, the first thing I did was to call you 'Mrs. Bullerton'. I don't blame you for not being able to forgive me, Jeanie, girl; honestly, I don't."

"It was worse than a crime," she averred solemnly; "it was a blunder. What made you do it?"

"Partly because I was a jealous fool; but mostly because I was sore and sorry and disappointed. I thought Bullerton had beaten me to it."

"No," she said quite soberly; "it was Miss Randle who beat you to it."

I gasped. There were tremendous possibilities in that cool answer of hers; prodigious possibilities.

"But say!" I burst out; "didn't I tell you that Lisette had pushed me overboard long ago?"

"I know. She was sensible enough to see that you and she couldn't live on nothing a year. But now that you are rich, or are going to be . . . I'm sure you are not going to be less generous than she was. What if she did take your ring off in a moment of discouragement, and knowing that you couldn't buy her hats? You can be very sure she put it on again as soon as your back was turned."

There we were; no sooner over one hurdle before another and a higher one must jump up. I groaned and thrust my hands into my pockets. A paper rustled and I drew it out. It was the telegram Buddy Fuller had handed me, still unread. I opened it half absently, holding it down so that the glow of the nearest flare fell upon the writing. Then I gave a little yelp, swallowed hard two or three times and nearly choked doing it, and read the thing again. After all of which I said, as calmly as I could:

"But, in spite of all that I had told you about Lisette, you asked me once to kiss you."

"Is—is it quite nice of you to

UPPER PENINSULA TO HAVE REINDEER

Michigan, through its conservation department, will attempt to propagate reindeer in the upper peninsula of the state.

A consignment of 50 cows and 10 bulls, ordered months ago from Norway, recently arrived in New York. The herd will be brought to Michigan and turned loose. For the present, because of demoralized transportation conditions, the reindeer will be allowed to roam in the northern part of the lower peninsula, but in a few weeks they will be transported across the Straits of Mackinac into the country that is to be their permanent home.

According to officials of the state conservation department, reindeer should thrive in upper Michigan. Extremely cold weather is prevalent in winter, and the winters there are unusually long. Moss and forage, which is suitable for fodder for the animals, is found in abundance in the upper peninsula, officials say.

These beautifying oils are scientifically blended in famous Palmolive Soap. They give it mildness, wonderful soothing qualities, profuse, creamy and refreshing lather.

Cleansing with Palmolive is a beauty treatment in itself. No woman should say her skin is too sensitive to use soap until she has tried Palmolive.

The attractive green cake, the natural color of the oils, is within the reach of every one who appreciates that cleanliness is the greatest beautifier.

Now you can get yeast the way you want it

For the first time you can get a pure whole yeast in agreeable and convenient tablet form

Of surpassing interest to you thousands of men and women who understand the remarkable health-building properties of yeast is the knowledge that you can now get yeast the way you want it.

Ever since the therapeutic value of yeast was definitely determined by leading scientists, there has been an insistent demand for a pure whole yeast of high vitamin potency—that would keep; that would be easy and agreeable to take; that could be conveniently carried about in the pocket, and, finally, that would not form gas nor cause flatulency or belching.

In Yeast Foam Tablets these demands have been met.

A food—not a medicine

Yeast has within itself the amazing therapeutic element, vitamin, the corrective properties of which are more astounding than any known drug or medicine.

If you wish to take drugs or medicine, do so on the advice of your physician. If you wish to take a supplementary food, for its tonic action on the whole body, take pure, whole, concentrated yeast—Yeast Foam Tablets.

What this new yeast does

"Foods which lack vitamin will not maintain health," says a noted medical authority, "and many foods which originally contained this element reach our table with all vitamin eliminated, due to various heating and preparing processes."

The vitamin thus eliminated is restored through the addition to your regular food of Yeast Foam Tablets. They stimulate the appetite, aid digestion and enable the body to convert food into firm, healthy tissue.

What to take Yeast Foam Tablets for

For that ill health, commonly known as a run-down condition, and all its distressing symptoms such as sluggishness, anaemia, failing strength and endurance, lost appetite and malnutrition, you will find nothing more efficacious than a prompt treatment of Yeast Foam Tablets. They are sold by all druggists.

Under the soft breath of Spring the world revives, and Nature freshly arrayed in budding leaves, dances alluringly to Pan's fantastic pipes.

Pity the man who fails to respond by adding to his wardrobe the proper refreshment in Spring garb. For him all seasons are alike, dun, drear, and gray.

But for every man who finds Spring dancing in his veins, be he gray beard or stripling, we urge an early inspection of our exquisite display of

HATCH HERD CLASS A MILK

QUART 12c PINT 6c

From far and near cities and even from the countryside come the reports of underweight and undernourished as a widespread condition among school children. This is a danger signal. Such conditions provide prolific culture-ground for disease. Nourishment during school hours is the answer. And pure, whole milk from a government-inspected and certified herd is the cheapest and most easily digested and assimilated form of nourishment. A quart of our choice Class A Milk has the equivalent food value of any of the following:

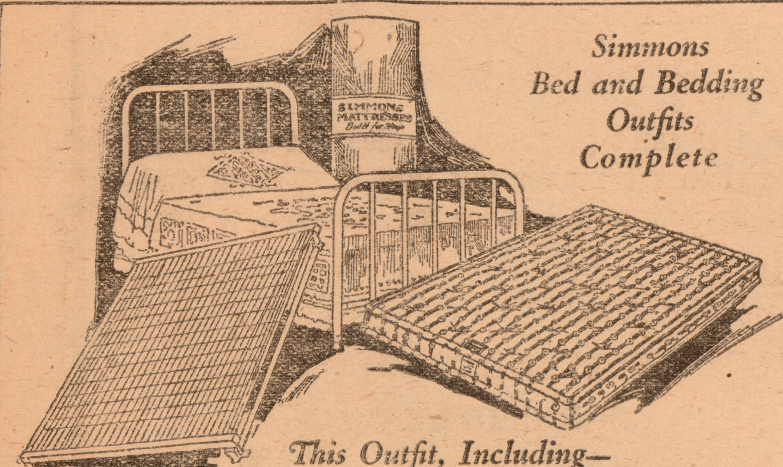

- 1 7-10 pounds of Beans.
- 3 3-4 pounds of Cabbage.
- 2 1-4 pounds of Chicken.
- 4-5 pounds of Beefsteak.
- 8 (23 doz.) Eggs.
- 6 9-10 pounds of Oranges (about 7).
- 2 2-3 pounds of Peas.
- 7 pounds of Lettuce.
- 5 pounds of Turnips.
- 6 pounds of Spinach.
- 1 7-10 pounds of Bananas (about 6).
- 4 pounds of Beets.
- 2 1-3 pounds of Codfish.

Encourage the school children to figure what each of these items would cost at the present market price and write it down after the item. Then compare the cost of a quart of our Class A Milk and notice the economy. And there is no expense nor delay in cooking milk. In fact, it should not be cooked, for this destroys the Vitamines.

Funeral services were held for Mrs. Betsy Roberts Saturday afternoon from the home, 208 Olive street. She was buried in the Udell cemetery. Mrs. Roberts was 81 years old and had lived in Ypsilanti for the past 30 years. She was found in her bed Wednesday unconscious from inhaling gas fumes. She responded rapidly to medical treatment and it was thought that she would recover, but age was against her and Thursday afternoon she passed away. She told friends that she got up early Wednesday morning, fixed the fire and went back to bed until the house got warm, and was overcome by the escaping gas, and when found by neighbors was unconscious. She was well liked and had a host of friends. She was alone in the world with the exception of an adopted daughter, Mrs. Eudora Randall. Her husband died several years ago.

Burns officiating, with burial at Highland cemetery.

BEAUTIFUL GIRL OF SCREEN SUPPLANTED BY FRECKLE-FACED ACTOR.

Not so very long ago the beautiful girl was the chief aspirant to film fame. No motion picture was complete without a feminine beauty, who completely dominated a screen story.

But Wesley Barry, the inimitable freckle-faced movie star, has caused to spring up an impression that beauty is no longer a requisite for screen honors. Most every youngster who can boast of three or more freckles, be he homely or handsome, believes that he has the inherent ability to romp home a winner as a cinema artist.

Now Wes' Barry is said to prove beyond the shadow of a doubt in the forthcoming Warner Brothers production, "School Days," which will be the feature attraction at the Wuerth theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, that it takes more than freckles to be a first-class A1 screen celebrity.

Gee, I'm strong for the kids," said Wesley, "but there is a lot of them what think just because they got a handful of freckles they kin become movie stars. I don't want to discourage any of them, and in fact any kid what's got a good hunch an' a strong one at that, that he kin act before the camera, let him go to it. But he'll have a hard climb. Yes, sirc! I done everything from office boy to play the part of the little kid of a wealthy grandma and it was no pipe cinch."

"School Days" is hailed as Gus Edwards' classic, a photoplay delightful that is calculated to bring back the happiest days of both grown-ups and youngsters. It was produced by that astute motion picture producer, Harry Rapf. The picture was directed by Wm. S. Nigh, who some time ago brought forth ex-Ambassador Gerard's famous story "My Four Years in Germany," and more recently, "Why Girls Leave Home." Mr. Nigh collaborated in the writing of the scenario with Walter De Leon.

In the cast supporting Wesley Barry are a number of talented youngsters, including an array of screen players composed of Francis X. Conlan, Nellie P. Spaulding, Margaret Seddon, Arline Blackburn, J. H. Gilmore, John Galsworthy, Jerome Patrick, Eveline Sherman and Arnold Lucy.

Harper Britton has been quite sick with flu.
